Dear Mr Strauss,

I, Mrs Kahn, the General Manager for the Victor Telecommunication Ltd, am writing this letter to announce that you have been promoted to the post of chief engineer for the Victor Telecommunication Ltd. This decision has been reached unanimously by the team inspecting the performances put forward by the various engineers at Victor Telecommunication Ltd. Your performance has been at par on a consistent basis and owing to this consistency, the authorities have decided to award you the promotion. This promotion marks the beginning of a new era in your career and I hope that you shall colour it with vivid colours.

The firm has complete faith in your abilities and now it is your turn to justify your promotion and come up with ideas and solutions that shall help build a prosperous future for the firm. Looking forward for an excellent performance from the new chief engineer of this firm,

Yours faithfully,

Mrs Kahn

To whom it may concern,

It is my pleasure to write a letter of recommendation for Brandy Dean, a talented undergraduate student who has worked in my dental office as a dental assistant for over three years. Brandy has been a highly valuable asset to me as part of my team, and ranks among the best workers I have ever supervised. I recommend her to you very highly.

Brandy has shown an extremely high level of diversity, critical thinking, and self-motivation throughout the time I have known her. She is a highly organized individual that can manage a schedule and complete paperwork extremely efficiently. Her customer service skills are top-notch, and she is highly skilled at building rapport with clients. In addition to her high social ability, Brandy is also a very promising dentist. She is knowledgeable about a variety of dental techniques and processes. Her duties in the office included preparing equipment and performing basic checkups, and I am pleased to say that she exceeded expectations through her performance. I believe her capacity and intelligence make her a highly qualified candidate for dental school.

In short, I give Brandy my highest recommendation. She is one of the best workers I have supervised and possesses the drive and talent to become a successful dentist. Brandy is able to pick up new techniques with great ease, and has an eager mind that seeks to understand everything that she is doing. She has a tremendous capacity for independent work and the desire to create beautiful smiles for clients. I fully expect her to be an excellent and productive as she sets in my dental office. She will be a high achieving student in dental school, and I strongly recommend her without reservation.

Sincerely,
Mark Krump, DDS

In this article, we explain what an official letter is, how to write an official letter and provide a model and an example of an official letter. What is an official letter? An official letter, also known as "formal letter", is a document written professionally for another company or business professional. The official letters are often written using simple and direct sentences with a formal greeting and signature included. Fold the letter correctly so that it adapts to the envelope. Write your name and address in the upper left corner of the envelope followed by the name and address of the recipient in the middle. Here are the rules you have to follow: if you have used someone's name at the beginning, you end up with "my my honestly", if you used â € ¤ ,--ear lord or lady "instead, end up with â € ¤ Establish Eâ your faithfully, whatever the way you have to finish your letter. it must be followed with a comma. This is a professional way to explain to you during the use of simple and concise phrases to avoid taking the time of the reader. Determine the formality of the greeting of the tone for the rest of yours Letter. Be clear on because you are writing the time to use your list organized by the first step. If you are not aware of the recipient's name, you can write "Dear Lord or Lady" 4. For example, you can write "Dear Alex Smith" . A scarcely written letter leads to an impression Less positive. The body of your letter should clearly declare because you have chosen to write a letter to this person and because recognizing their actions. Try to refrain from providing details or examples up to the second paragraph.] [This second paragraph describes your point point due the drafts and send your letterfter that you have finished writing, you can read the letter to capture any grammatical or spelling errors. Choose a simple white, square or rectangular envelope. In the next two weeks, I continued to dedicate my time to finish the rest of my projects and provided any training necessary to relieve the transition process. Thanks again for the support you gave me and thanks for having dedicated some time to read this. In a more formal letter, it ends with "sincerely" in front of your name. If you are writing to a colleague or friend, a simple and informal greeting is the best. For example, if you were writing a letter of recommendation, you could expand the skills of the person who recommends saying: "The management of the time of Avery and the organizational skills have improved the efficiency of my activity by 12% from the beginning of the quarter." You can continue to give examples until you believe that your point has been clearly understood by the reader. This paragraph can be short and finalize the document by repeating the main point, explaining all the next steps or thanking the recipient for having dedicated the time to read your letter. After closing the letter, you can provide your closing signature at the end of the document. Use the paragraphs of your body to declare the reasons for writing the paragraphs of the body are where you can capture your main points and professionally explain your concerns, opinions or other information to your recipient.
